AVI-SPL Distinguished with Polycom's Integrator of the Year Award for 2008

Recognition highlights outstanding customer service, ability to provide complete end-to-end video communications solutions

TAMPA, FL, June 23, 2009 – Leading audio and video communications provider AVI-SPL was recently named "Integrator of the Year" by Polycom, Inc. (NASDAQ: PLCM), the global leader in telepresence, video and voice communications solutions. Announced last week during the Infocomm 2009 conference and expo in Orlando, Fla., Polycom's award recognizes AVI-SPL for outstanding customer service, highlighting the company's ability to create innovative solutions that support the unique needs of a diverse range of markets, including the corporate, education and government sectors.

"AVI-SPL is proud to be recognized for this achievement, and looks forward to continued success with Polycom, in support of customized services and solutions for clients worldwide," said CEO John Zettel. "We are committed to becoming a dominant player in the video and Telepresence space, from desktop technology to our newly launched suite of managed conferencing services for both traditional video and telepresence environments, ConferencePoint™. Acknowledgement by key partners like Polycom demonstrates that we are continuing to solidify our strength in this space."

"This is an exciting time for resellers in the communication and collaboration market as today's solutions can dramatically impact the performance and competitiveness of their customers' business across industries," said Mark Roberts, vice president, partner marketing, Polycom. "Polycom is proud to be represented by AVI-SPL, which has demonstrated continued excellence in meeting customer needs."
